

The cottier chamber project guide to Brahmsian Beards

Brahms-esque:

Johannes Brahms:
The Benchmark

Modest Mussorgsky:
A little scraggly,
but extra points
for pirate-style

Terry Riley:
Oh yes!

Erik Satie: Galic flair (and mirror glasses?!)
carries him through

Arvo Pärt:
Well on his way!

Antonín Dvořák:
Inspired-by-Brahms

Maurice Ravel:
Galic flair again

Arnold Schoenberg:
He was clean shaven
so painted what we're after!

Daniel Cottier:
A distant cousin of Brahms...?

Derek Ball:
Local composer
blazes a trail

Doesn't make the cut:

Johannes Brahms
as a youngster: Smooth...

Jacques Offenbach:
Mutton-chops
but a chilly chin

Claude Debussy: Too neatly trimmed

Giacomo Puccini: Close but no cigar

Alexander
Scriabin:
No chance!

Pyotr Tchaikovsky:
Too much neck
on show

Jean Sibelius:
Caterpillar solo

Edward Elgar: Almost an honourable mention

William Sweeney:
Good start from a local boy

Eddie McGuire:
Lucky not to get a lifetime ban for this!!
